

Be a UN Volunteer, be inspiration in action

// How can a UN Volunteer complement the work of the United Nations?

Volunteerism is one of the most vital delivery mechanisms for social, environmental and economic transformation, ensuring a lasting impact with its ability to change people's mindsets, attitudes and behaviours. People become actors of change and equal partners in the attainment of local, national and international progress towards sustainable human development and global peace.

The United Nations Volunteers (UNV) programme recognizes the shared universal values underpinning volunteerism – free will, commitment, equity, engagement, solidarity, compassion, empathy and respect for others. Since its establishment in 1970, UNV has enabled thousands of volunteers around the globe to contribute to advancing human development and fostering progress towards a better world.

// Community resilience for climate change and disaster risk reduction

In the priority area of community resilience for climate change and disaster risk reduction, the critical involvement of volunteers has been in disaster risk management, particularly by strengthening the capacity of communities to respond to and prevent disasters. Closely linked to disaster risk reduction is the environment, and the global recognition of volunteerism's role in environmental protection and advocacy. Volunteers facilitate transitions between emergency relief and rebuilding productive lives, and they are instrumental in leveraging and strengthening capacities in communities faced with situations of chronic vulnerability.

In the area of community resilience for climate change and disaster risk reduction, UNV's partners have requested volunteers knowledgeable and experienced in: access to energy, food security through sustainable livelihoods, climate change adaptation, community-based natural resource management, environmental risk assessment, environmental degradation prevention, sustainable biodiversity conservation climate change mitigation, strengthening community-centered sustainable development, rehabilitation and recovery and building resilient cities.

UN Volunteer Agriculture Advisor Primitivo «Tom» Tengco (left), from the Philippines, discusses the new onion crop with one of the young farmers taking part in a project on environmentally sustainable farming practices in the Choma District of Zambia.

Tom, 62 years old, worked for 35 years in the Philippines building sustainable farm systems to upgrade agricultural output. He spent eight years as a UN Volunteer sharing his knowledge in Botswana, Malawi and Zambia. He shares, "I took every opportunity to share proven techniques we use in my homeland that could improve farm efficiency and increase food production."

(Photo: Carol Atwell/UNV, 2011)

// Why become an international UN Volunteer?

Becoming a UN Volunteer is a unique opportunity to enrich personal and professional experiences, and it benefits both the individual volunteer and the society at large.

In 2017, some 6,500 UN Volunteers in over 100 different professions served with 35 United Nations entities in 131 countries. Of these UN Volunteers, 59 per cent served on international and 41 per cent on national assignments, 83 per cent were from the global South and 47 per cent were women. Additionally, close to 18,500 UN Online Volunteers contributed to development through the UN Online Volunteering service.

International UN Volunteers serve in countries other than their own, and are highly-skilled individuals who work actively with development partners and within communities, responding to development priorities and needs in countries faced with poverty and socio-economic challenges, humanitarian crises, conflict and post-conflict challenges and situations of fragile peace.

International UN Volunteer assignments can be an initial contract of 6 to 12 months, generally with a possibility to extend for one to two years. Short-term assignments of three months or less are also required from time to time by UNV's partners.

// What are the minimum requirements to serve in a community resilience for climate change and disaster risk reduction assignment?

- A higher technical diploma, university or Master's degree (credentials will be requested);
- A minimum of two years of relevant working experience in your professional field;
- 25 years or older (there is no upper age limit);
- Good working knowledge in at least one of the three UNV working languages: English, French and Spanish (Portuguese or Arabic an asset for some countries);
- Strong commitment to the values and principles of volunteering;
- Respect for diversity and a willingness to work in a multi-cultural environment;
- The ability to adjust to changing and at times difficult living and working conditions.

// What support is provided to international UN Volunteers during their assignment?

- Settling-in-Grant calculated on the duration of assignment, which is paid at the beginning of the assignment;
- Volunteer Living Allowance (not a salary) intended to cover basic living expenses, which is paid each month;
- Travel to duty station on appointment and return/repatriation at the end of assignment as applicable;
- Life, health and permanent disability insurance;
- Annual leave;
- Resettlement allowance calculated based on the duration of assignment, which is paid upon satisfactory completion of the assignment.

// What opportunities to volunteer does UNV offer?

International UN Volunteers serve in countries other than their own, and are highly-skilled individuals who work actively with development partners and within communities, responding to national priorities and needs. UNV maintains a database which is a dynamic pool of talent fed by over 50,000 registrations annually and tailored to meet the needs of our partners. The majority of assignments are filled from UNV's database, however, difficult, highly specialized or high volume assignments are advertised on the UNV website, professional associations and on social media/networks.

To create your UNV profile, visit our website at:
<http://www.unv.org/how-to-volunteer.html>.

National UN Volunteers serve in their own country and combine their professional expertise with in-depth knowledge of local conditions. For further information, contact your local UNDP/UNV office.

A UN Youth Volunteer programme was launched in 2014 for the placement of UN Youth Volunteers aged 18 to 29. For further information and assignments, visit www.unv.org/become-un-youth-volunteer.

The UNV Online Volunteering service puts volunteers into contact with organizations worldwide to work together for peace and development – over the Internet. www.onlinevolunteering.org.